

June 2017

Summer is here!

As we welcome the sunshine of summer and the rest and recharging it can bring, we also welcome our new students here on campus and those studying with us around the country and the globe. Joining the College of Nursing's student body have been a new cohort of 80 second degree accelerated students (BSNExpress), 19 RN-BSN students, 21 master's students, eight DNP students and nine PhD students. Congratulations on taking the first step in advancing your career!

Irish experience excites student about their chosen profession

After eight class sessions on Irish healthcare and culture throughout the spring 2017 semester, six nursing students – sophomores and juniors accompanied by Maryanne V. Lieb MSN, RN, clinical assistant professor and Tamara M. Kear PhD, RN, CNS, CNN, associate professor – visited Ireland May 13 – 27 for an International Field Study in Nursing. Aside from growing in their cultural sensitivity and understanding of similarities and differences in the U.S. and Irish health care systems, they saw the universality of nursing.

Transitioning from student to nurse

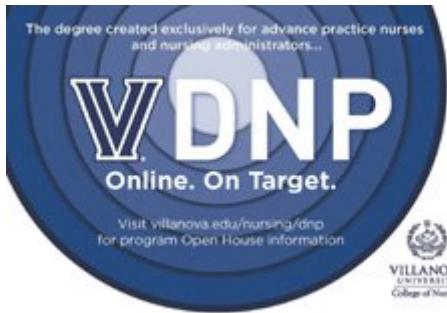

Caitria Parsloe '16 BSN, RN recalls, "When I graduated from Villanova University I could not believe how I would be a registered nurse in a matter of a few months...My first year as a nurse on the Transplant Unit at MedStar Georgetown University Hospital has been an incredible journey."

See how she developed during her transition as a practicing RN as she launched her career in the field of transplant medicine and offers advice to new graduates.
