A NEWSPAPER FOR THE PART-TIME STUDIES COMMUNITY

APRIL 2004

DOES YOUR EMPLOYER PROVIDE UPFRONT TUITION BENEFITS?

IF NOT... HAVE THEM JOIN THE VILLANOVA TUITION EMPLOYER BILLING PLAN – A benefit for your employer and for you!!

College tuition can mean financial difficulties even if your employer covers all or part of your tuition. Our new Villanova Tuition Employer Plan has benefits for you as well as your employer. If your employer qualifies and signs up, a streamlined billing process occurs with your employer guaranteeing payment of your tuition. In turn, you as a student will not have to carry the tuition on your credit card for the semester. A number of major technology, communications, manufacturing, pharmaceutical companies, and hospitals are already participating.

If your employer does not qualify for this Plan, there are other financing options for you such as the Tuition Management System (TMS) that will spread your tuition costs over the semester (call 610-519-7961 for more information).

If you think the Villanova Tuition Employer Billing Plan might be of interest to your employer, have your Human Resources or billing officer call the Villanova Bursar's Office at 610-519-7961 to discuss this program. V

If you are a graduating senior, you will soon be a Villanova alumni and will benefit from all the rights and privileges that come with that title. The Villanova Alumni Association (VAA) is your connection to the Villanova community and also a direct link to more than 65,000 alumni in 60 local chapters around the world. To take full advantage of the benefits and events, to receive monthly eNews and event invitations, simply keep your contact information up to date! Contact the Villanova Alumni Association at 1-800-VILLANOVA or at www.alumni.villanova.edu. V

FOCUS ON: WHAT'S NEW WITH BIS/INFORMATION SYSTEMS?

SUE METZGER JOINS PART-TIME STUDIES STAFF

By Dan Barone '05; Intern, Office of Communication and Public Affairs

In late November, Sue Metzger joined the Part-Time Studies staff as the Program Director for the new Bachelor Degree of Interdisciplinary Studies in Information Systems. In this position, she is responsible for designing and maintaining the curriculum, attracting and advising students, teaching select classes, and keeping in close contact with industry leaders to ensure the relevance of the degree. Metzger's goal is to employ a curriculum that combines computing principles with courses that focus on the effective application of technology for the management of information. In addition, she is responsible for finding ways to better support part-time students using distance learning and other non-traditional course offerings.

Before joining Villanova, Metzger worked as Director of Global Support at SAP America for over eight years. She also has worked at The Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania supporting classroom and research technology and teaching undergraduate evening courses. She received an undergraduate degree from Bucknell University and an Executive Master's of Technical Management from the University of Pennsylvania.

PART-TIME STUDIES INTRODUCES BIS/INFORMATION SYSTEMS

By Erica Nowak, Office of Communication and Public Affairs

The University recently instituted a new component to its Bachelor of Interdisciplinary Studies (BIS) Degree. Along with two other majors, General Studies (currently available) and Leadership Studies (available fall 2005), a major in Information Systems is now available to part-time students.

What makes the BIS unique is that it provides a flexible core curriculum to allow adult students to focus more on their areas of interest, while still maintaining the major elements of the Villanova core, including the humanities, ethics, philosophy, social sciences and scientific theory. "Our goal is to facilitate to the needs of adult learners," said Sue Metzger, Director of the Information Systems major. Because of this focus, the program includes options for one night a week and weekend classes, FastForward courses and distance learning opportunities. To continue moving towards this goal, the program will consider additional non-traditional learning opportunities, such as 50 percent online/50 percent in-class courses.

In addition to the core BIS requirements, Information Systems adds its own unique twist to the program. The concentration is intended for those who wish to pursue a career in information technology and information management, but do not wish to delve into the scientific and engineering sides of computer technology. Combining ideas from both the Department of Computing Sciences and the Department of Decision Information Technologies (DIT), the BIS in Information Systems is geared towards "the application of technology in all different types of industry," noted Metzger.

Some of the course offerings of the Information Systems major include computer science courses such as Computer Networks, Software Engineering, and Principles of Database Systems and DIT options of Data Communications, System Analysis and Design and Database Management. In addition to these basic courses, there are also Information Systems Environment courses which are geared more specif-

NEWS FROM YOUR UNIVERSITY SENATE REPRESENTATIVE

There have been two University Senate Meetings so far this semester. The following are brief summaries of what was discussed at each meeting.

Friday, January 30, 2004

Report from the Academic Policy Committee: Senator Debra Arvanites, Chair of the committee, reported on the two major issues their agenda has been dominated by this year. The first being approval of an Intellectual Property Policy – last spring Dr. Johannes named a subcommittee to draft a policy which would be brought to the Academic Policy Committee for approval. Contracts and agreements between the university and other entities pushed the need for an articulated policy before approval could be given. Work on this policy is continuing with the anticipation of approval before the spring semester concludes. The second major issue has been a study of the final exam schedule, which has led to a recommendation to the registrar's office to focus on reducing the number of final exam conflicts for students. That work is continuing.

Report from the Athletic Advisory Committee: Senator John Stack, a member of the committee, read the report from the chair of that committee. Prior to reading the report, he wished to highlight one item, Priority Registration. He stated that the fact that athletes cannot register for courses in any priority order causes problems for the athletic advisors, the coaches and the students. There has been discussion of the need to get athletes into closed courses in order to allow for practice time. The sentiment of the committee was not in favor of the inability of athletes to register with priority.

Annual Report to the University Senate from the Senate Budget Committee: Dr. Wayne Bremser, Chair of the Senate Budget Committee presented the formal report to Senate members and asked that the University Senate approve the Administrative Budget for the Fiscal Year ending May 31, 2005. Once the report was completed, a discussion ensued amongst the senators regarding a dissatisfaction with the proposed University Budget – specifically a .5% decrease in the originally proposed (3.5%) faculty pool for the 2004-2005 academic year. This decrease, from 3.5% to 3.0% amounts to $250,000 or .09% of the total budget. At the end of a lengthy discussion, the Main Motion to approve the Administrative Budget failed to pass.

Friday, March 19, 2004

During the opening remarks of this University Senate Meeting, it was announced that the Board of Trustees voted to approve the University Budget for the Fiscal Year ending May 31, 2005. However, they also acknowledged the University Senate's dissatisfaction of the budget by making an adjustment in the raise pool for faculty and staff to 3.25%.

Guest Speaker: Mr. Lance Kenney, Director of International Studies – Made a presentation explaining the focus of Department of International Studies. Mr. Kenney stated that this year 10% of the total student population at Villanova University will have participated in a form of international study – far exceeding the national average of 2%. A student wishing to study abroad does not need a specific language as a prerequisite and has no limitations on geography, except anywhere the State Department lists as unsafe. Outside of the classroom experiences are the focus for these programs as well as getting students to study in non-English speaking countries.

Committee on Mission & Social Justice: Dr. Mark Doorley, Ethics, reported on some of the issues on the agenda for this committee. Presently, there is no policy in existence for a faculty or staff member to have time off to adopt a child – they must take vacation time to do this. The committee is looking into a change in policy for this matter. Also, short-term disability policies have been revised so that months four, five and six are now fairly well covered, however this comes at the expense of the coverage for the first three months. This revision is also being looked into by this committee.

Committee on Faculty: Dr. Jeffrey Johnson, History, reported on the present nominations for faculty awards for this year. Nominations are still being accepted and a final list will be submitted to the President for selection.

The next University Senate Meeting will be held on April 23, 2004. This will be the final meeting for the 2003-2004 academic year. Feel free to contact me if you have any questions or topics you wish to be discussed with the University Senate. Have a wonderful Spring Semester!

ATTENTION GRADUATING SENIORS!

If you expect to receive your degree within the next year, you are required to make official application for doing so no later than November 1 for May completion, April 1 for September completion, and August 1 for December completion. A "prospective graduate card" can be obtained in the Part-Time Studies Office, Room 107 Vasey Hall. It is also available online in PDF format at http://parttime/currentstudents/attention_graduating_seniors.htm. Your academic advisor will review your record and verify that you have completed all the requirements for graduation. This is an extremely important procedure. By submitting this card, you will be listed on the prospective graduate list, your degree will get officially posted, and your diploma will be ordered.

PARALEGAL GRADUATION HELD

By Elizabeth Solly '05; Intern, Office of Communication and Public Affairs

Graduate Suzanne Dada smiles proudly as she receives her diploma from Continuing Studies Director Gary Bonas

On January 15, Villanova University's Paralegal Certificate Program held its graduation ceremony at Yangming in Bryn Mawr. Ten students completed the four-month program, which is part of Villanova's continuing studies department. Dr. Sam DiLullo, the program coordinator, presided over the ceremony, which began with an elaborate five-course dinner, and concluded with the presentation of certificates to the graduates.

Before the presentation, DiLullo spoke to a crowd of about 40 about Villanova's paralegal program, crediting the faculty for the creation of "one of Philly's premier paralegal programs." Rocco Nigro, who has been a professor in the paralegal department for 18 years, received a plaque to honor his service to his students and the entire Villanova community. Nigro currently is taking a semester off, but looks forward to returning to the paralegal program in the near future. DiLullo lauded Nigro as someone who "exemplifies teaching, and teaches because he really wants students to learn." DiLullo went on to thank those who make the paralegal program possible, including the other faculty, the law advisory committee, Continuing Studies director Gary Bonas, Karen Christie, who coordinated the evening, and the entire Continuing Studies department.

Three graduates were singled out for exceptional academic performance. Brian Leibrandt, Lorraine Elliott and Suzanne Dada each received a plaque in honor of his/her achievement; each of these students earned a grade of "A" in every paralegal course they took. Elliott said of her experience with the program, "It was very interesting, and it was great to be back in school."

As the evening drew to a close, DiLullo urged the 10 new graduates to keep in touch now that their tenure with the University has ended. As paralegals, they now can assist lawyers in both the public and private sectors; they may prepare specialized documents, interview clients and research laws. DiLullo expressed his pride in the students' achievements and excitement over their future opportunities, but reminded them "not to get a big job and forget us."

The Paralegal Certificate Program has been offered since 1983, and may be completed in the traditional four-month sequence, which is offered three times a year, or in a part-time evening program that spans the course of one year. The program strives to educate motivated individuals in the theory and practice of law and legal ethics. Students are equipped with the necessary practical skills to extend the effective delivery of legal services, as defined by the American Bar Association.

All courses are taught by experienced lawyers and paralegals in the Philadelphia area, and the program benefits from an advisory council made up of practicing lawyers, paralegals, corporate counselors and Villanova faculty.

NOTEWORTHY VILLANOVA ALUMS

- Jerry Pappert, a 1985 graduate of Villanova University, was unanimously confirmed by the Pennsylvania Senate as the state's new Attorney General. Pappert will serve as Attorney General until January 2005. He graduated with honors from Villanova University in 1985, earning a double major in political science and honors. He received his law degree from the University of Notre Dame Law School in 1988.
- Gerald Marzorati was named editor of the New York Times Magazine in September, 2003. Marzorati graduated with honors from the University with a degree in humanities in 1975. V

FROM THE DIRECTOR OF PART-TIME STUDIES

While the University and Part-Time Studies has a regular advertising plan to promote our programs, it is often word of mouth and current student referrals that brings us new applicants. For this reason we are asking for your help in getting information on our adult and part-time programs to your friends and co-workers. Does your company or place of employment have employee reading rooms, education centers, cafeterias or bulletin boards where brochures, catalogs or flyers on Villanova's part-time programs may be placed? Would your company training department or HR office like to have a Villanova representative visit on-site to speak to employees about Villanova's degree programs? We would appreciate hearing from you or an HR representative.

Application packets, brochures and flyers are available in Vasey 107. If you are willing to place them in your company where accessible to other employees or give us a name and address where we can mail them, we greatly appreciate it. Feel free to contact me or any of our staff in this regard.

While interviewing and advising many of our adult students there appeared to be confusion over the use of the term concentration in place of major. Since all students in the College of Arts and Sciences are required to have a major it was appropriate to make this change and we thank Dr. Stokes for pursuing this issue.

On a different topic, the Villanova parking office will now mail parking permits to the home address of our evening students, if requested. You must register for your parking pass on the web. For additional information go to www.public-safety.villanova.edu/parking.html

INTRODUCING . . . DR. NANCY ALLEN

ADJUNCT FACULTY MEMBER, ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

By Linda Pugliese, PTS student, BIS/General Studies Major

Nancy Allen has taught both English 1050 and CHS 1000 at Villanova as an adjunct faculty member for over three years. She received her B.A. in English from Bucknell University, her M.A. in English from Duquesne University and her Ph.D. in English from New York University. PTS students are the beneficiaries of her professional expertise as well as obvious love of her subject. She is very passionate about her work and tries to pull the students into active class participation. Below are Nancy's responses to some thought provoking questions.

1. Book that influenced how you live your life:

I was raised by parents who were very devout Christians, so I would say that the Bible is the book that has most influenced the way I live my life. My parents were very conservative Christians, so while I have rejected the politics that colored their faith, I will always be thankful for the knowledge they gave me of Scripture and the passion they had for asking basic questions about how we should live our lives.

2. Books on your nightstand right now:

I am reading two novels right now: The Corrections by Jonathan Franzen and Juneteenth by Ralph Ellison. Jonathan Franzen's novel is comic and irreverent but also very weighty. He creates a truly dysfunctional family—parents who are shaped by the repressive and capitalistic values of the Great Depression—and children who embody all the damage and backlash of those values.

Juneteenth explores the complexity of black/white race relations in this country, recounting the story of a black minister who raises a white boy who becomes a segregationist senator. While it does not have the power or the lyrical sense of The Invisible Man, I am glad that his widow and literary executor took the time to see that it was published. I am always interested in the journey of the novelist/poet/writer, and I think this novel embodies Ellison's sense that the story of race in this country needs to be told because it is not and may never be resolved unless we are willing to embody it in our own story.

3. Favorite author, fiction:

Toni Morrison is my favorite novelist. Telling stories are basic to what we are as human beings, she says in her Nobel Laureate address, and her novels tell of the complexity of the human experience. She is not an American or an African American novelist; she is a great novelist who speaks across cultures with the exquisite nature of her stories and her language.

4. Favorite poem:

I do not have a favorite poem, but I love poetry. Yeats is one of my favorite poets, and I love his works from his early through his late poetry. He is a poet who tells his story, his autobiography, in his poetry. He takes me to Ireland in his works and he allows me to experience his love for his country and his uncertainty about the politics that have shaped who he is.

5. Favorite comic strip:

Peanuts. I grew up with Peanuts. Charles Schultz's characters are all of us and I will admit I have been compared to Charlie Brown's little red haired girl on more than one occasion.

6. Favorite music:

I love all kinds of music, but music of the classical period is my favorite. In fact, this past year, after a twenty-five year break, I started taking piano lessons again and loving it. I am as nervous now as when I was five years old, but the difference? My teacher is much more patient than that mean old man who gave me lessons when I was little.

7. Last Concert attended:

An all-Mozart concert last summer at the Kimmel Center.

8. Your heroes from history:

This is a difficult question. We all need heroes. . . people who are bigger than we are and give us hope that the human spirit will endure and individuals will make the right choices. But I would say we should stop having unrealistic expectations about people we admire.

My father is the most important hero in my life. He had an unwavering commitment to his family and his church. He instilled in me a desire to see my work as a vocation, not as a career. He treated each individual as if they were a treasure, someone unique. It is always my desire to do the same.

I admire Jimmy Carter. President Carter is a wonderful model of a public servant. I admire his integrity and his commitment as a peace maker now, even though he is no longer in office.

THE E-COLUMN

Data Bytes:

- About 5.4 billion gigabytes of new information was stored on paper, film, magnetic disks, or optical disks in 2002, compared with 3.2 billion gigabytes in 1999.
- The United States produced about 40 percent of the world's new stored information. That includes 33 percent of all printed material, 30 percent of all new film, and 50 percent of all the data recorded on computer disks. (Some findings from a study by Peter Lyman and Hal Varian)

PDF or Portable Document Format. PDF is an electronic format which allows document delivery without affecting the document's original appearance. Articles ordered through the Interlibrary Loan department can now be delivered to your e-mail in PDF format. The lending library determines the format, so materials received from the lender in PDF format are forwarded directly to your Villanova e-mail account. This method of delivery means that some articles can be received in as little as 24 hours. Any questions can be directed to the Interlibrary Loan department at 610-519-4274. Requests can be made online through the Request Forms link on the Falvey Memorial Library home page or by submitting a paper request form.

Villanova's web site gets a new look. Based on input received from campus review committees and external design reviews, Villanova will launch a new University homepage. This effort is part of a planned refresh of the University's overall web presence. This past December, the first phase migrated the University sites to the newly approved University logo and branding. Our second phase entailed a redesign of the External and Internal Villanova home pages. Look forward to future changes and improvements as the Web Project proceeds.

Web Based Parking Registration. Web Based Parking Registration is available to all commuting students. To access this form you will need your Novasis ID and Password. Eligible students who complete the form on line will have the parking permit price automatically billed to their student account. It's easy and hassle free. The day after you register on line your permit is ready for pick-up in the Parking Office which is located in Farrell Hall. At the time of parking permit pick-up, students will be required to present their WildCard, valid driver's license and vehicle registration for verification purposes.

For additional information please feel free to contact the Parking Office at 610/519-6990, during normal business hours or visit their web site at <http://publicsafety.villanova.edu/parking.html>

Wireless Internet Access. Falvey Memorial Library has joined Bartley, CEER and Tolentine in providing the Villanova community with wireless Internet access. Designated hot spots, in the Library and throughout the campus, will soon be designated by the "Villanova Wireless" symbol. For more information go to unit.villanova.edu/support/menu/wireless/wireless_faq.html. After checking out UNIT's online resources, interested students may also call UNIT's Help Desk at 9777 for more information. V

GOOD NEWS FOR ACCOUNTING CERTIFICATE STUDENTS

I wanted to pass along some good news. I met with you two years ago to enroll in the Certificate of Accountancy program with the goal of changing careers to public accounting. Well, earlier this week I accepted a job offer from Ernst & Young as a Staff Accountant in their auditing practice—exactly the type of position I wanted when I started this journey two years ago. I'm sure you get many questions from incoming students regarding what they can expect to get from this program, or can I really make the change? As evidenced from my own experience, a change is most definitely possible. Villanova gave me a tremendous opportunity and one for which I am grateful. Thank you very much.

Regards, John Hand V

ically towards certain industries. Some of these courses include: pharmaceuticals, expert systems, local governments, small business, e-business and human resources. Because of this specialized arrangement, Metzger sees this program as one of a kind. "It is an opportunity to make yourself (known as) a unique individual in the market place," she said.

An additional component to the program is that the University has transfer agreements with Montgomery County Community College and Delaware County Community College, in which many, if not all, of the courses applied towards an associate's degree at these institutions can also be applied towards the BIS at Villanova.

BIS MAJORS VS. CONCENTRATIONS

By Dr. Robert Stokes

Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs for Part-Time and Continuing Studies

An important decision was recently made concerning the Bachelor of Interdisciplinary Studies degree programs. Initially, the new degree had Concentrations in General Studies and Information Systems with plans for a third Concentration in Leadership Studies. As the new degree was offered, it became apparent that the use of Concentration instead of Major was confusing and not appropriate. It was confusing in that the Concentration in Information Systems requires more credit hours than some majors. In addition, each student's Banner record requires a Major field and this impacts several functions such as My Classroom and Financial Assistance. Finally, the use of Major better represents the significant coursework and the academic direction and choice of students in these programs. We will be changing materials that use the term Concentration. If you have any questions about this change, please contact the PTS office at 610-519-4300. V

LOST AND FOUND REMINDER

PTS reminds our students about the extensive lost and found collection at Public Safety headquarters. All year Public Safety finds, or has turned over to them, items that have been lost, misplaced or forgotten. These include keys, books, electronics, clothing, bikes, jewelry and/or other personal items. Community members may not realize that Public Safety keeps lost items, in an attempt to return them to their rightful owner. If you have lost anything since September, chances are Public Safety may have it. If items are not claimed by September 2004, Public Safety will hold its annual auction. If you have lost something this academic year, call Public Safety at 610-519-6979. They just might have what you've been looking for!
